The Impact of Childhood Preferences on Adult Choices

Most Respondents grew up eating predominantly American Cuisine, but there is a notable portion who didn't answer or choose other.

emotional and situational triggers like boredom, sadness, happiness, or being tired are major drivers behind comfort food consumption. Most students stay Active Regularly by doing Exercise. And then some of the students exercise 2-3 times per week

Students' self-perception of health varies widely — some feel very healthy, but others don't."

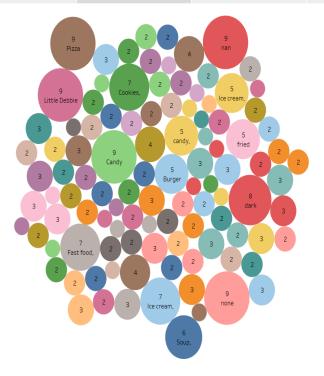

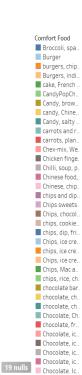

The Impact of Childhood Preferences on Adult Choices

Most Respondents grew up eating predominantly American Cuisine, but there is a notable portion who didn't answer or choose other.

emotional and situational triggers like boredom, sadness, happiness, or being tired are major drivers behind comfort food consumption.

Most students stay Active Regularly by doing Exercise. And then some of the students exercise 2-3 times per week Students' self-perception of health varies widely — some feel very healthy, but others don't."

The Impact of Childhood Preferences on Adult Choices

The Impact of Childhood Preferences on Adult Choices

Most Respondents grew up eating predominantly American Cuisine, but there is a notable portion who didn't answer or choose other.

emotional and situational triggers like boredom, sadness, happiness, or being doing Exercise. And then some of the students exercise 2-3 times per week food consumption.

Students'self-perception of health varies widely — some feel very healthy, but others don't."

